JUVENILE COURT NEEDS OUTLINED BY CITIZENS

Brightwood Park Association Favors More Probation Officers and New Building.

The Juvenile Court of the District came in for recognition last night at a meeting of the Brightwood Park Citizens' Association held in Van Horn's Hall, Georgia avenue and Longfellow street northwest. The matter was brought up before the association by William McK. Clayton, who urged the association to join in the movement for the appointment of a sufficient number of probation officers to properly care for the children whom the law places under the guardianship of that court. He continued by saying that "we appreciate the services of mind and heart that former Judge De Lacy gave to the work of the court for years, and we recognize in Judge Latimer an official whose efforts to strengthen and advance this great work of reformation of the young should have at all times the active and hearty support of every citizen."

Mr. Clayton's resolution, which was adopted, approved the appointment of more officers and object a new court building suitable in all its appointments. Municipal Court Salaries. The attention of the association was called to the fact that the salary of the judge of the Municipal Court, which was created several years ago, was fixed by the act creating the court at $3,000, but only $2,400 was appropriated. Since that time the jurisdiction of the court has been enlarged, as to the various causes of action up to $500 and the number of cases considered by the court has also been largely increased. In view of the fact that the court pays all expenses from the fees and costs received from litigants, and returns a handsome surplus to the Treasury, the association unanimously adopted a resolution, to the effect that the amount and character of business transacted by the Municipal Court justifies and requires salaries for the judges of $3,000 per annum.

The extension of 13th street from Spring road northward to Piney Branch road, was the subject of a report by George Francis Williams, who informed the meeting that efforts should be made, if possible, to obtain the necessary land by donation and that the improvement of the street would undoubtedly follow. The election of officers for the ensuing year, which was postponed from the September meeting, was held last night before adjournment and resulted as follows: Home: president, J. W. Falcner, Jr.; secretary, S. M. Falcner, Jr.; and treasurer, A. W. Felka; delegate to the Federation of Citizens' Associations, William McK. Clayton, and alternate, E. J. Ayers.

The necessity for the trimming of trees on several of the streets in the park was brought to the attention of the association by former President J. D. McIntyre, and Secretary Falcner was directed to send a communication to the proper authorities urging that this be done. William G. Wilson, John Mahoney, Thomas Kilpatrick, F. W. Dahn, William Peach and Charles Williams were elected to membership.

In accepting the office of president, Mr. Smith said that the association was in favor of representation in the making of laws for the District, and whatever plans for making Washington the model city were adopted, they would still be defective if the authorities failed to provide better representation than the citizens now receive.

OVER THOUSAND TONS OF ASPHALT IN CARGO

Noted Schooner in Port From Port of Spain, Island of Trinidad.

Laden with over a thousand tons of asphalt from Port of Spain, Island of Trinidad, the British bark Rakaka, Capt. Rawdine is lying at Star wharf, foot of South Capitol street, to unload. She sailed from Trinidad October 4, and made a quick passage to the capes of the Chesapeake, passing in early Tuesday morning last. The asphalt is put in the vessels in a semi-fluid condition, and coming north it hardens, so that the vessel arrives here it is a solid mass that can only be removed with pick and shovel. To do this takes time, and it is probable that the bark will be in port here for about a week.

Capt. Rawdine, the master of the Rakaka, was formerly in command of coasting schooners, and has been in port here with ice cargoes. He is a brother of Capt. Rawdine, known to the crew of the schooner Henry S. Little, but who is now in command of the Boston-owned steamer Peter G. Crowl.

South American Pigs as Pets. Aboard the bark Capt. Rawdine has two South American pigs as pets. One is tame enough to eat out of your hand. The other was also tame until a short time ago, when his confidence in mankind was somewhat disturbed. He was caught and his tail was removed with a chopper. This was not done in cruelty, it is explained, but South American pigs, like some breeds of dogs, have their tails bobbed to make them look pretty. In addition to the pigs, the vessel has a happy family of turkeys, chickens and cats.

The Rakaka, it is stated, has had quite a history. She was built about forty years ago for service as a passenger packet between England and New Zealand and was fitted out in elegant style, traces of which are still to be seen about the vessel and in her cabins. After being displaced in the passenger trade the bark was used for freighting service and was under the German flag when she stranded on the Florida coast.

Under the British Flag. As she lay on the beach she was sold to Capt. Rawdine and others for $1,500 and by them was floated, repaired and placed under the British flag and hailed from Barbados. On her last voyage the bark carried a cargo of coal from Norfolk to the west coast of Africa, and from there went to Trinidad for asphalt. It is stated that after she unloads here she will go to Norfolk to load another cargo of coal for A. J. James, of Shipley of the Maryland Pilot Association, who piloted the Rakaka from the capes to this city.

Argentine Senator to Reply Visit. Argentine Minister Garrett, at Buenos Aires, has notified the State Department that Dr. Benito Villanueva, a distinguished member of the Argentine senate, has been selected to visit the United States to reply the visit of Senator Root, as Secretary of State, to Argentina a few years ago, and will sail from Valparaiso, Chile, November 26. Accompanying him will be American military attaché at Buenos Aires, will accompany Dr. Villanueva during his entire trip. Extensive plans will be made for the entertainment in this country of the South American visitor.
